

The Assessment of Sexual Knowledge (ASK) is a new test that aims to provide workers within disability services and other health professionals with a tool to assess the sexual knowledge and attitudes of people with an intellectual disability.

The information obtained from the assessment can then provide a basis for the development of educational programs and human relations educational counselling that can be more accurately tailored to suit both individual and group needs. The ASK has been carefully designed to be an accurate and user-friendly tool appropriate for use with people with an intellectual disability. It has also been developed as an easily utilized tool for use by a broad range of professionals.

There are four components to this assessment tool;

- Knowledge
- Attitudes
- Quick Knowledge Quiz
- A Problematic Socio-Sexual Behaviours Checklist

The ASK has been designed so that each part can be used independently or in conjunction with another. There is also an accompanying picture booklet that is used in conjunction with some questions in both the Knowledge and Attitudes sections.

The test itself takes approximately 45 minutes to an hour to complete for an experienced administrator, and the packs include a number of answer booklets. In recognition of the fact that these run out quickly, copies of the test include a CD that contains PDFs of these sheets so that there is no need to purchase additional booklets.
